

HEALTHY COMMUNITY

We believe every person should have the opportunity to achieve their best health and well-being. This means local individuals and families have access to healthcare and nutritious food.

United Way helps make this possible by funding programs that connect people to affordable care and critical health services. We also mobilize volunteers to provide direct support, outreach, and help navigating complex healthcare systems - ensuring more people have the opportunity to live healthier lives.

ACCESS TO HEALTHCARE

For seniors in our rural counties, access to healthcare is often a challenge, but volunteers are making a difference. Through UWECI's Medical Transportation program, seniors get to essential medical appointments, helping them stay healthy and independent. The Senior Health Insurance Information Program (SHIIP) volunteers provide trusted guidance on Medicare, easing confusion and reducing costs.

The Belle Plaine Project Group brightens a local nursing home with holiday signs and special treats, reminding older adults that they are valued and cared for. In one year, this group put together 270 treat bags and made 495 signs for residents. Together, these efforts ensure seniors have both the care and the connection they need to thrive.
